

BICENTENNIAL SPECIALFORCESRIFLES BATTALION
AIRMOBILE (HELICOPORTADA) COMPANY (AIR ASSAULT)

Best regards I am Colonel Homero Rodriguez "Ray" , Green Beret of the United States Army and Honor Guard of Colombia. In this year of the Bicentennial of our Independence, I would like to pay tribute to the oldest Unit of the Colombian Army: the Rifles Battalion, created in Venezuela in 1818, Honor Guard of the Liberator, that integrating the British Legion was covered with glory in Vargas and Boyacá; Pedro Pascacio Martínez of the First Company, captured General Barreiro after the fight, demonstrating Honor and integrity.

Upon arriving in Santa Fe and receiving the Laurel Wreath from the villagers, General Simon Bolívar handed it over to the Rifles and since then it has been flying on the flagpole of its war flag. The Battalion continued its journey through Bomboná, Junín and Ayacucho where the freedom of America was conceived.

Dear Col. Rodriguez Garcia:

I am most grateful for the outstanding cooperation and assistance you provided to our staff during our recent visit to Bogota.

The assistance provided by you was a major contribution to the success of my visit. We are well aware of the many details that are so vital in making a trip like this run smoothly and that these responsibilities are in addition to your already busy schedule.

Again, many thanks for your significant contributions towards making our visit a safe and successful one.

Very truly,
 Bill Clinton

In terms of the Anti Kidnapping Operations, we started the activity supporting the F2 of the General Staff of the National Police and Administrative Department of Security (DAS).

In 1986 as a DAS officer I was the head of the Section of the Anti-Kidnapping Initiative supported by the United States Government in Department D2 (Intelligence of the General Command Military Forces), the Presidential Program for Personal Liberty, advising and collaborating with the Military Gaulas and the FBI until my departure from the country
